Representative Winners Irma Sub-Local Track and Field Meet Held May 26

The annual Irma and District Track and Field Meet was held at the school grounds on Friday, May 26.

Entries from eleven rural schools plus those from the town schools, insured keen rivalry among the various contestants. Competition began at 9:30 a.m., however it was not until ten hours and many "charlie horses" later that the last bats and balls were deposited into kit bags and weary, but contented athletes departed for home.

The three winners in each event (except in the 5-8 age group) will represent the Irma Sub-Local at the Divisional meet in Wainwright on June 2.

Seed Drill Survey

Seed samples will be collected from seed drills again this spring. It is hoped to collect some 100 samples throughout the M.D. of Wainwright. These samples will be turned over to the Field Crops Branch, Dept. of Agriculture and a seed grade determined. Through this survey we hope to determine the class of seed that is being planted in this Municipality and also the necessity of a central seed cleaning unit. From the survey last year, we found that over 50 per cent of the seed being planted was of a Rejected Grade. As long as we continue to use such an inferior class of seed, there is no hopes of ever ridding the farms of the weed menace. Good No. 1 seed is the basis for any weed control program. Seed wheat is generally of No. 1 or 2 grade but Oats and Barley are generally No. 3 or rejected. Just remember that No. 3 seed wheat only allows 15 primary or secondary noxious weed seeds per pound (including Wild Oats). About 12 handfuls make a pound, so check your seed and if there are more than one weed seed to the handful, it is either No. 3 or rejected.

WARBLE FLY CONTROL

Warble spraying is over for another season and I'm happy to report the results are very encouraging. The districts where spraying has been done for two or three years had very few warbles, but those districts which were sprayed for the first time this spring showed fairly heavy infestations, especially in the yearlings. I feel that the service has been very worthwhile and the cattle have experienced great comfort from the effort. This program will have to be continued on a community basis if it is hoped to reduce the hazard to a minimum. Farmers who have taken advantage of the service report that their cattle have never pastured in greater comfort before. These remarks are very encouraging and I hope that every spring will see more farmers and communities taking advantage of this service. It is impossible to describe the pain and discomfort the cattle have to endure to harbor the warble if not treated.

TB FREE AREA

A petition will be circulated along with the Bangs Free Petition for signatures to declare the M.D. of Wainwright No. 61 a TB Free Area (Bovine). The only remaining area to be signed up is that of the old Battle River M.D. Signatures of two-thirds of the cattle owners will be required in this area. Upon completion of the petition, an application will be made to the Minister of Agriculture to have this M.D. declared a restricted area for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis. Testing will be done by the Dominion Government free of charge to the farmers.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

Miss Gertrude Fardin of Saskatoon was a week-end visitor at the Satre home. Miss Fardin was on a trip to Norway last summer and took many beautiful "movie" pictures. These she showed to an interested audience at Sharon Church last Monday evening.

Two groups from Sharon Church were busy last Sunday. Several of our young folk were on a Lutheran League Executive tour, visiting Ryley, Holden and Round Hill. Meanwhile another group went to Bethania Church (near Sedgewick) to take the service for Rev. Saugen. This group centred about the male quartet and the speaker.

Miss Arlene Steffensen was a visitor to Edmonton during the middle of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Enger of Edmonton were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Taylor from Chilliwack, B.C.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick of Holyoke, Alta., motored here with her son Ivan, to visit her daughters, Mrs. T. Bacon, Mrs. G. Fenton and Mrs. H. Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. King had Sharon King and baby brother of Wainwright as their guests for a few days last week.

SHOWER FOR MRS. W. VEITCH (NEE ANNE PASCHA)

The home of Mrs. M. Enger was tastefully decorated with wedding bells and pink and white streamers for the shower in honor of the former Miss Anne Pascha, a bride of the past week. There were about twenty-five present. After an evening spent in contests, serious and otherwise, piano solo by Mrs. W. Patterson, a reading and advice to the bride by all, Anne was presented with a large hamper, carried by Irene Dootson and Reta Fenton, of gifts.

After the gifts were unwrapped, Anne thanked the givers in her own gracious way. All sang "Auld Lang Syne" and little Lorraine Savard delighted everyone with her very appropriate singing of "The Best to You."

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess assisted by many of the other neighborhood ladies.

The Port Of Churchill

FOR MANY YEARS the people of the Prairie Provinces have been interested in the development of the port of Churchill. Far removed as they are from both the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboard, the possibility of a port for ocean-going vessels so close to the prairies has been of great concern to farmers and business men in that part of Canada. When the port of Churchill was opened in 1901 there was great optimism regarding the benefits which the new outlet would bring to the people of the West. The northern terminal of the Hudson Bay Railway, the port had a large grain elevator and a well constructed wharf which provided easy access from the bay for ships.

Lower Costs Of Shipping

At that time it was expected that there would be a saving of twelve cents a bushel on the transportation of wheat shipped from points in Saskatchewan and Manitoba to Churchill, as compared with the cost of shipping it by way of Montreal. A similar saving was anticipated in the cost of manufactured goods brought in by the Hudson Bay route. However, the short shipping season in that area, high insurance rates and other obstacles resulted in less shipping being passed through the port than had been expected. In 1944 the Hudson Bay Route Association was formed by a voluntary group of prairie residents who were convinced of the value of the port to the West. This organization endeavored to secure more business for the Hudson Bay route, and while it met with some success, it is still believed that more business should be handled through the port each season.

Request More Wheat Be Sent

Last year, 5,500,000 bushels of wheat were shipped out of Churchill and 1,200 tons of imports came in by that route. These were record figures for the port. Sixteen ships came in during the two-month season, which opens on August 5th, but only three of these had two-way cargoes. The Hudson Bay Route Association has requested that this year 25,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat should be shipped by way of Churchill and that the port should be opened as soon as ice conditions permit navigation, rather than early in August regardless of the season. They are also asking that insurance rates be lowered, that port facilities be improved and that the government look into the possibilities of developing water power along the Hudson Bay Railway. For some time the value of the port has been a matter of controversy between various interests throughout the country but whatever the merits of the arguments which have been advanced, the value of an ocean port to the West could not be denied. It would also seem to be in the interests of economy to make the utmost use of the facilities which have been provided for shipping wheat by that route and for bringing imported goods to the prairies.

$10 Million Needed For Flood Fund

WINNIPEG. — H. W. Manning, general chairman of the Manitoba Flood Relief fund, said that unless a minimum of $10,000,000 is contributed, more than $5,000 victims of the Red river valley face the most tragic ruin in Canadian history.

"Ten million dollars is the absolute minimum . . . (for) the bare essentials for the resumption of home-life when the waters subside."

"Anything less will mean that hundreds of Manitoba families will face a long period—perhaps a lifetime—of misery and sorrow."

"We are confident that Canadians will not permit this to happen to fellow-citizens."

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

"How long did it take Jack to teach you to swim?"
"Three weeks next Saturday—he goes home then."

"I was crazy to get a wife and since marriage I've never changed my opinion . . ."

"I've got a lot of things I want to talk about."
"Good!" said her hubby. "Usually you want to talk about a lot of things you haven't got."

A Hollywood producer received a story entitled "The Optimist". He called his staff together and said, "Gentlemen, this title must be changed to something simpler. We know what an optimist is, but how many other people know it's an eye doctor?"

"That woman next door went and got a hat exactly like mine."
"Did you make a fuss about it?"
"No! I gave mine to the cook."

Young Woman: Something's wrong with my Grandmother, I've been a bridesmaid twice. I caught the bride's bouquet too, but I'm single.
Grandmother: Well, dear, next time don't reach for the flowers, reach for the best man.

Said the young nurse, speaking of her two beans: "If I could combine their qualities I'd be the happiest girl in the world. Harold is gay, debonaire, rich, handsome and witty; and Clarence wants to marry me."

A well-known comedian protests that he is always being told one of his stories. This seems to be a case of the tale dogging the wag.

"Are you going to the bridge club this afternoon?"
"No, it's my turn to stay away and be talked about."

A revival service was being held, and one of the partners in a local concern had joined the church. He tried to get his partner to do likewise.

"I can't do it, John," replied the partner, when the other's insistence became irksome. "Who'll do the weightin' if I join?"

U.S. Keeping Eye On Alberta Gas

VANCOUVER. — The eastern U.S. is keeping an eye on Alberta natural gas, waiting for the time it will be available. E. J. Funk, Jr., Baltimore, Maryland, said here.

Mr. Funk is vice-president and chief engineer of C. M. Kemp, manufacturers of newspaper melting pots, stovetop equipment and industrial equipment.

"A great deal of industrialization is waiting for natural gas from Canada," Mr. Funk said. Texas also is a likely source of gas and a pipeline is being mooted.

He said natural gas on a competitive rate will be a big factor in industrialization of Maryland. Mr. Funk is making a market survey in B.C. "The market is here. We've just never gone after it," he said.

Prices For Farm Products Show Increase

OTTAWA. — Farm prices of agricultural products in Canada, excluding Newfoundland, advanced in March over February, but were below level of March last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported.

The bureau said that on the basis 1935-39 prices equal 100, the farm prices index for all Canada stood at 246.2 during March, up 3.5 points from the February index level of 242.7, but 4.9 points below the 251.1 level of March last year.

The bureau said the March increase was largely due to higher livestock prices, with small increases also being registered for eggs and potatoes. Compared with a year ago, farm prices were lower for all commodities except livestock.

The March indexes for provinces, with the indexes for the corresponding month last year in brackets, were:

Prince Edward Island 180.0 (199.8); Nova Scotia 192.3 (216.4); New Brunswick 208.7 (233.4); Quebec 252.1 (267.8); Ontario 253.2 (254.3); Manitoba 248.8 (253.8); Saskatchewan 237.7 (240.5); Alberta 256.2 (257.0); British Columbia 234.9 (247.3).

Record Prices For Redwater Oil Rights

EDMONTON. — The Crown Trust company paid the Alberta government $1,611,711 for oil rights on a single quarter section of land in the Redwater oilfield, shattering all previous price records on government reserves.

The 160-acre plot is on the southeast fringe of the field adjoining a quarter recently proven by the Royal-Alite-Triad team.

The sale was one of 13 which netted the government $6,607,274. They covered about 2,000 acres in the Redwater field, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton, and in the new Excelior field, 12 miles north of Edmonton. Results were announced by Hon. N. E. Tanner, mines and minerals minister.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

SUCCESS

By Jeanne O. Wellenkamp

CHRISTOPHER ADAMS sat behind his polished mahogany desk and wondered how he was going to tell his wealthiest client that she was wealthy no longer.

"A letter would be easiest," he thought. He pictured the words standing black and final on his rich bond letterhead: "... regret to tell you that your properties have suddenly ceased yielding. Apparently the wells are not to be as productive as we had hoped..." enclosed in the check...

He could picture her fingering his letter in pleased expectation before opening it, her eyes still as defenseless as on the first day she had walked into his office. That had been four, no more than five, years ago.

"You're a lawyer?" she had asked timidly.

"Yes. What can I do for you?" he'd answered without looking up from the old letters he kept on a battered desk for the purpose of giving chance clients an impression of activity.

"I work here in the building, and your name is right at the top of the directory," she confided, as one believing that he led the list by virtue of excellence rather than by courtesy of the alphabet. "I think I need a lawyer."

She laid down some papers, her hair swinging limply as she bent forward.

She was a soft person, observed Christopher Adams, as if life had already wilted whatever starch she'd been endowed with.

He picked up the documents. Although he admitted to himself that he was not as yet a successful man, he knew that he was quick, analytical, almost intuitive; that all he had lacked was opportunity. A glance through her papers, and he felt he understood all there was to know about her: born on a farm, she had grown up in an atmosphere of work and worry. She saw the lean years suck the life from her parents, and did not even guess that youth was a time for joy. Lacking color as she lacked confidence, she now worked at a filing case, grateful that she had found a way to support herself and pay the small tax on the old farm.

And suddenly, on this meager inheritance, the discovery of oil.

Christopher Adams remembered how quickly he had recognized his chance. "Indeed, you do need a lawyer," he told her. "I'm especially glad that you came to me. I don't want you to make a single move without my advice."

Thus, without one false word, he indicated to her that he was wise in the intricate world of oil, and although it was his first contact with black gold, he manoeuvred like a veteran.

As the money flowed into her account in a seemingly endless stream, he watched her transformation. Good food brought color to her cheeks. Her hair and skin glowed, and her step became light and free.

She would come to his office for approval—did he like her new coiffure, the Paris suit, the furs? Her eyes waited for his verdict.

"No," thought Christopher Adams, "I can't match all that away from her with a letter. I'm not quite that much of a coward." "Perhaps break the news by telephone," and with the thought, he could hear the upward tilt of her "Hello?"

Once he said to her, "You always answer the phone as if you expected something wonderful."

"I do!" she cried. "I always think that perhaps my husband is calling me!"

Her husband. The words echoed flatly in Christopher Adams' mind. He had seen the fortune hunters flock around. Once he had even warned her, weighing his words carefully: "Watch your step. You're lovely and you're rich. You've got to be smart enough for two women."

"Don't worry about me," she laughed. "I know what I want."

What she had wanted, Christopher Adams thought as he fingered his telephone, was perhaps the most cynical fortune hunter of them all; a man grown calculating, who had seized this opportunity to ensure prosperity always before denied him. In return for his easy compliments she showered him with love and luxury. And while she, at home, waited breathlessly for his call, he would often be seen driving into the night with the alluring redhead he called his secretary.

"No," thought Christopher Adams again, pushing the instrument away. "I won't pull the world out from under her with a telephone call!" He looked around his office as if drawing courage from its paneled walls. Then he put a few papers in his pocket and walked through his reception hall and spoke to the girl at the desk.

"I'm coming home. I have some important oil matters to take up with Mrs. Adams."

As he reached the outer door, he turned once more to the lovely redhead. "Draw a check for two weeks' pay," he directed. "You need not come back after today. I shall be spending most of my time with my wife. She needs me."

And, squaring his shoulders, Christopher Adams walked out.

Shelter Belts Urged For Farmlands

REGINA.—Farmers breaking new land are urged to leave shelter belts around farmlands, wherever possible, Saskatchewan agricultural department officials said, according to a bureau of publications release.

They said this would apply particularly to the breaking of new land in the frontier regions of Saskatchewan, now being made available for agriculture.

Farmers in all areas would benefit greatly through increased yields by planting shelter belts around individual quarter or half sections.

Current projects of roadside tree planting in municipalities call for planting not less than 75 feet back from the centre of the road. Crops may be grown between trees and roads.

Poplar, willow, Manitoba maple and caragana are most commonly used for shelter in Saskatchewan. Rapid growing, they provide effective shelter within five years.

Business Outlook A Question For Flooded Manitoba

WINNIPEG.—Manitoba business men don't know where they stand. The devastating floods through the whole Red River Valley leave the business outlook a big question mark.

Some businesses will boom when the floods subside. Millions of dollars worth of damage must be repaired—much of it quickly to make homes livable and industrial and retail premises fit for operation.

Business connected even indirectly with agriculture is at a standstill in the flood zone. When it will get back to normal will depend to a large extent on how fast the federal and provincial governments start pouring relief and rehabilitation funds into farming districts.

Red River Valley farmers are destitute. All but a handful have had to be evacuated. Much livestock has been slaughtered because feed ran out. Farm homes and other buildings stand in several feet of water. Farm implements are rusting.

No one knows the crop prospects for 1950 in the valley. Most experts forecast it will be weeks before the Red is back within its banks. It will be much longer before the river-bordering towns can be repopulated; and it is those towns which supply the farm community. Transportation will be handicapped for months.

The floods in 1948 were followed by excellent crops in the valley. But they were much less widespread; and the clean-up job was relatively short. There is some doubt whether many farmers can get in crops at all this season. If that is so, the provincial government's budget forecast of a boom business year for Manitoba may have to be revised.

The Red River country is among the province's most prosperous agricultural areas in normal years. Crop failures are unknown there. And Manitoba, despite rapid advances in other industrial production, is still basically an agricultural province.

Bad times in the Red River Valley can only be reflected in reduced business activity in Winnipeg and elsewhere.

Wildcats are risky

To an oil man a "wildcat" is a well drilled in an area where oil has never been found. Drilling a wildcat is a risky undertaking and a costly one. Some wells have cost more than a million dollars—and have not been successful.

For that reason oil men make as certain as they can, before drilling, that there is a good chance of finding oil. They use the most modern instruments and skills to locate each drilling site; but still the odds are 20 to one against them. Only about one wildcat in 20 becomes a producer.

Over the past 30 years oil men have worked continuously against these odds. In Western Canada Imperial alone drilled 134 wells—all dry—before the Leduc field was discovered in 1947.

But the end result has been new oil for Canada and benefits for Canadians. There are thousands of new jobs. Millions of U.S. dollars are being saved as the need for imported oil lessens. And, as another natural resource moves towards full development, the Canadian standard of living climbs higher.

These are real benefits to Canadians and they will increase as more oil is found. But to find more oil and to spread the advantages it brings, oil men must continue to work against long odds.

Sometimes a job that must be done can't be done without great risks.
